Let's make music!!

Beating the drums and tooting the horns for the Annual Heart Ball Friday night are several of the women around town working to make Heart Month a success. Providing hot links to kick off the yearly bash are Mrs. Glen Angel at the trumpet, Mrs. Sam Knight, Mrs. Tim McKee on the drums, Mrs. Jerry Phillips in her "Yankee Doodle Dandy" finest and Mrs. Eddie Jones, ready to step out with the best stickmen in the land. Mrs. Angel, Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Scott Serflippi, not shown, will occupy the new positions of the Hearts on Parade Girls. Mrs. Phillips is the decorations coordinator, along with Mrs. Diane Richmond, also not shown, and Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Knight are in charge of decorating the foyer. The dance will begin at 9 p.m. Friday. Tickets can be obtained from Mrs. Wayne Carter, Mrs. Frank Teets, or Mrs. Charles Schiele are the dance co-chairman and table reservations can be obtained by calling Mrs. Dudley Barnes.

Rogers sends 'no' on Bicentennial talk

The Belle Glade Bicentennial celebration may have to go on without the main speaker unless other arrangements can be made, the Herald learned this week, following the receipt of a letter saying Congressman Paul Rogers won't be able to make it.

Congressman Rogers had been asked by members of the Belle Glade Bicentennial Committee last April to be the main speaker during ceremonies planned for Memorial Day and Rogers tentatively accepted.

A check made last week during the committee's regular meeting, to determine what time would be convenient for Rogers to make his appearance, revealed Rogers had the appointment set on his calendar and an aide advised the committee to write him on the time of day.

That was on Feb. 9 but a letter, dated Feb. 6 which Committee Chairman Charles Ward received this week from Rogers advises him the Congressman will be unable to be here on May 31.

Rogers told Ward he had had some time recently to look over his calendar and noted the invitation scheduled for May 31. "Unfortunately, it appears, now," Rogers wrote, "that I will be unable to be in Belle Glade on that date and I was hoping to be able to arrange for an alternate time."

"It will be necessary for me to be in Florida the weekend of May 15," he went on, "and I might suggest that afternoon following a previously scheduled luncheon engagement which I have in Pompano Beach."

"If it is possible to change the date," he said, "I will look forward to hearing from you as I would very much like to be able to participate."

Ward said he had advised Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth of the Congressman's letter and he understood she was to telephone Rogers in the hope of working out other arrangements.

As of Wednesday morning, Ward said he was unsure whether Mrs. Wedgworth had made the call and Mrs. Wedgworth was out of her office all that day and was unavailable for comment.

The committee set the date of the celebration for May 31 because members felt Memorial Day wouldn't conflict with other celebrations already set for July 4, when a number of other municipalities in the area are planning events commemorating the Bicentennial.

But if celebration plans were dealt a blow in the speaker area, progress was made in another direction.

Following the last committee meeting, the Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club met and agreed to take on the responsibility of producing a printed souvenir program for that day.

Details haven't been worked out on the program, but the general concept is to print a program people attending the celebration on Memorial Day can keep over the years to remember the nation's 200th birthday and what Belle Glade did to help observe the event.

Other events scheduled for the celebration include the unveiling of a statue commemorating the 2,000 victims of the 1928 hurricane, the dedication of a museum for the area, a parade and a cookout at the City Marina.

Water everywhere with lots of questions

Sugar Cane League sets study

The Florida Sugar Cane League announced Tuesday it has commissioned an engineering firm to conduct its own in-depth study on the eutrophication, or dying, of Lake Okechobee.

League Public Relations Director Don Walsh said the water quality engineering firm of Black, Crowe and Edmuns of Gainesville to perform the multi-phased study and he said the first phase has now been completed.

"We, in the sugar industry," Walsh said, "subscribe to an all-out effort, based on sound scientific advice and study, in order to assure the prolonging of this resource vital to both the agricultural and metropolitan communities."

"We believe that South Florida needs the most meaningful, complete and valid data from which proper action, if required, be taken," Walsh said.

He remarked that recently there has been a deluge of reports containing research data relating to the eutrophication of the big Lake.

"At the outset," he said, "it is vital to understand that the term eutrophication by definition is the natural aging process of any body of water—even the most pristine lake high in the mountains."

"Available data," Walsh went on, "clearly conflicts with other available data, and a recent study points out that the quality of Lake Okechobee has not changed over the last five years."

He said the 3,500,700 acre total watershed of Lake Okechobee has undoubtedly undergone significant natural changes over the past 25 years.

"We should now make a determination of the total degree of violence done to the lake in order to intelligently devise an effective precautionary schedule."

He said one factor which should become known is which of two elements, nitrogen or phosphorus, is critical to the hyper-eutrophication of the lake and added that recent sediment studies indicate the Lake may have been moderately eutrophic some 4,800 years ago.

PBHA to sell parkland to city

The Belle Glade Housing Authority took the first step Tuesday night to sell a ten-acre plot of land surrounding the Lake Short Swimming Pool to the city to be used as an all-around recreational area.

The authority unanimously passed a motion by member Fritz Stein to have two appraisals made of the property, located across southwest Avenue E from Lake Shore Junior High School, preparatory to selling the land to the city.

Authority Chairman Louis

study undertaken recently has been a $1 million study undertaken by several state agencies, coordinated by the State Division of Planning.

This study has reportedly been completed but while and revised sketches are expected in about a week.

"This is the direction in which the city is moving," Grear said, "We expect to have a stop recreational area with things to do for young people and the senior citizens."

Among the proposed uses of the area will be shuffleboard courts, a paved rollerskating area and a bicycle motocross area.

The park is expected to be funded through Community Development Funds and Grear said he fully expects to have supervision.

Robert Shevin due to take part in Water! meet set for Sunday

Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin will join a coalition of environmentalist groups this weekend in Belle Glade for a tour of the area and a meeting Sunday morning on water resources and use.

The public meeting will get under way at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at the Agricultural Research and Education Center in Belle Glade. Several members are scheduled to accompany Shevin Saturday afternoon on a tour to see the levee and Lake Okechobee, sugar mills and sugar cane fields around Belle Glade.

The tour will be led by Miss Jessie Freeling, Western Palm Beach County Chairman of the Friends of the Everglades, one of the Water component groups.

Speakers during the public meeting Sunday will include

James Hartwell, a hydrologist, who will speak on water in the mucklands; Joan Browder of the University of Florida, who will speak on Lake Okechobee and a member of the U.S. Geological Service who will speak on pollution in South Florida rivers.

Another area to be covered will include the March 9 referendum to determine whether the people of Florida wish to fund the five water management areas in the state with ad valorem taxes or have the state fund them, and the consequences of passage of failure.

The group will also discuss the need for additional legislative study clarification and revision of the laws governing the five water management areas of Florida. Miss Freeling said another presentation will be made by Arthur Marshall on what he thinks should be done with the Holy Land. A proposal is now before the Florida Cabinet to lease part of the controversial tract in the southwest corner of the county to grow cane.

Another proposal has come from the Florida Division of Planning to take the Holy Land and flood it, using the township as a water retention area. The water retention plan has also received support from the South and Central Florida Flood Control District (FCD).

Miss Freeling said she'll plan to provide a better use for the Holy Land and wouldn't cost as much as using it as a water retention area. The coalition, Water!, resulted from talks between 14 environmentally oriented organizations in South Florida interested in water resources.

Participating were members from the Florida Audubon Society, the Friends of the Everglades, Florida Wildlife Federation, the Tropical, Royal Palm, Everglades and Okechobee Audubon Societies, Izak Walton League, Hall/Track Association, Florida Defenders of the Environment, the Environment Coalition of Southwest Florida, League of Women Voters and the Sierra Club.

Guatemalan seeks help

A Belle Glade woman born in Guatemala said this week she is attempting to help get shelter for earthquake victims in her country who have been sleeping in the open.

Mrs. Magdalena Moomey of 1640 S.E. K Place said she has been asked by her brother-in-law, a pastor of a church in Guatemala City, to help the church members find shelter for as many Guatemalans as possible.

Mrs. Moomey said the Rev. Mark O'Farrell, who pastors the Belle Glade Alliance Church, of which she is a member, has agreed to use the local church in the effort, although it isn't affiliated with her brother-in-law's church.

She said her brother-in-law, the Rev. David Rodriguez, pastors Iglesia San Juan Apostol and he has told her the church congregation has decided to ignore for the moment the fact that the church roof caved in the Feb. 4 earthquake in order to help the homeless.

"At first," Mrs. Moomey said, "I was really worried about my family, especially my parents, because they lived out in the country and communications and roads were disrupted."

"Finally my sister called Thursday," she said, "and told me everyone in the family was all right. But she said there were thousands left homeless and while they were being provided for right now, it's going to take a long time to rebuild all the houses."

She said the homes of about one sixth the population of the South American country were torn down in the earthquakes and said the rebuilding will have to be a continuing effort over a period of time. "My sister told me that even the people whose houses weren't torn down are sleeping in the open," Mrs. Moomey said, "because they're afraid another shock will come and they won't have time to get outside."

"My sister said it was terrible," she said, "that the adults are always keeping their children close by and the children are scared and confused by what's happened."

She said her sister had told her of towns the size of Belle Glade without a single house left standing. She said another problem is that the rainy season is approaching and, especially for the people who live in the mountains, the rain combined with temperatures which can drop to the 30's can mean real trouble.

"She said you feel like there is a bomb in the ground and you're waiting for it to explode," Mrs. Moomey said, "and you couldn't get away from it."

Mrs. Moomey said her sister felt Guatemala City

Two rape suspects sought by Local deputies

Sheriff's detectives are still looking Wednesday morning for two suspects in the multiple rape of an 18-year-old Bristol, Va. woman and the assault and battery of her hitchhiking companion Saturday night.

The detectives have arrested two suspects, King Solomon Kindred, 24, of 536 N. W. Tenth St. in South Bay and a 15-year-old juvenile, and charged them with strong arm sexual battery and assault and battery in the incident.

The aftermath of the incident had sheriff's deputies and detectives and three Belle Glade police officers combing a cane field near the South Shore Labor Camp for hours after the first assault occurred about 11:30 p.m. Saturday night.

Sheriff's deputies, headed by Detective Sgt. Willie Ray Noland, reconstructed the incident as beginning when the two hitchhikers were picked up by a single black male, one of the two still being sought.

The suspect drove off U.S. 1 near the South Shore Camp about 1.5 miles north of South Bay and took them about 1.5 miles off the highway, explaining he wanted to get some gasoline and he could pick it up cheaper at a small station off the main highway.

When the suspect stopped the car, he attempted to force Leonard Lynn Case, 20, of Mundelein, Ill. into the trunk of the car. When Case resisted, the suspect slugged Case and threw him into a drainage ditch beside the road.

The suspect turned his attentions to the woman, forcing her into the back seat, where she reported he sexually abused her, telling her he would kill her if she resisted.

In the meantime, Case found his way to the home of Mrs. Angie Hayes, wife of the U.S. Sugar plantation superintendent, and persuaded her to contact the sheriff's office.

While Case was contacting officers, the suspect had left the Virginia woman, had left her in the cane field, driven off and returned with three friends.

The four men forced the women into the car with them and were driving to another location when the driver lost control of the car on the road, which had been wet down the day before prior to burning off the cane field. The car went into the drainage ditch.

Getting out of the car, the four men proceeded to rape the woman again, deputies said, but were interrupted by the approaching cruiser driven by Sheriff's deputies Robert Bonold and Robert York.

One of the victim's abductors grabbed her and dragged her into a cane field while the other three fled. The woman was able to break free and stumbled from the field when the deputies had stopped after seeing the car in the ditch.

The deputies were joined by a number of other officers. Belle Glade officers Henry Jones, Mike Maussardi and Detective J. W. Eberle, and employees of U.S. Sugar Corp. and Glades Western Corp. joined their attempts to find the suspects.

The juvenile was sighted and captured shortly after daylight by Deputy Sgt. John Ransom. Kindred was picked up in South Bay.

The two victims were taken to Glades General Hospital where they were examined and treated by Dr. John Grady.

Culpepper declares

Robert F. Culpepper of Jupiter, a Palm Beach County Commissioner, Saturday announced his candidacy as Congressman of the 10th Congressional District. A 44-year-old Democrat who has served on the County Commission since 1968, Culpepper will seek the Congressional seat now held by L. A. (Skip) Bafalis, a former Palm Beach County resident who now calls Fort Myers his official residence. Bafalis is a Republican.

Sugar study parts of it have been released, most notably the so-called Roberts Report, the study report hasn't yet been made public. It was originally supposed to have been published in October 1975 but has been delayed several times.

The Roberts Report was compiled by Dr. Paul Roberts, a Maryland economist collaborating with other researchers on the study. Roberts suggested the South and Central Florida Flood Control District's tax system should be restructured.

Roberts made the suggestion, "due to the fact that a large portion of this cost, which is borne by the general public, represents a subsidy to private agricultural interest within the Everglades Agricultural Area."

Roberts report, which is reportedly only a small part of the overall report, has received support in some areas but has also been strongly criticized from other directions, as brought out in an article by Andy Williams in the February 1976 edition of Florida Agriculture Magazine.

Leage Vice President and General Manager Norm Roberts said the report goes off on a tangent from the central theme of the eutrophication of Lake Okechobee and develops into a political attack on the tax structure of the FCD. "If that's going to make up the final report on Lake Okechobee," Fairbanks has been quoted as saying, "it ought to be thrown into the waste can."

"We are appalled at the apparent character and direction of the 'special study' is taking," Fairbanks said in a letter to Lt. Gov. Jim Williams, who is supposed to be the person directly responsible for the study. The study may have been intended, but if the Roberts Report is any indication of its direction, it's more something more than a hatchet job on agriculture and particularly the Everglades Agricultural Area."

FCD Executive Director John R. Malloy has also come out in opposition to the Roberts Report and has pointed out what he calls errors and inconsistencies in the study.

He said the average municipal water withdrawals from the area governed by the FCD from 1968 through 1974 were 418,000 acre feet per year, more than that used by agricultural interests in Dade County.

Malloy points out, however, that Roberts says the agricultural interests consume 97 per cent of the total water consumed in Palm Beach, Dade and Broward Counties. "Williams goes on to say the Lieutenant Governor has decided to reject the Roberts Report as part of the overall study because, 'if we followed that system (the user-pays concept) we wouldn't be charging agriculture for supporting schools, because cows don't use them.'"

"All in all," Walsh said Tuesday, "we need to know where we are. Hopefully, no premature action will be taken by the State of Florida without the advantage of more complete and definitive data."

had suffered badly but she didn't feel it was hit as bad by the earthquakes as some of the smaller towns in the country.

"I think there are a lot of people here in Belle Glade," she said, "who would like to help but don't know how. I know there are a lot of people who have heard of aid being misused and not even getting to the people who need it."

"I know my brother-in-law," she said, "and I feel if there is anyone who will see the money goes where it belongs, it will be him. If there is only one man who will go to heaven, he will."

Mrs. Mooney, who said she has lived in the United States for the past six years with her husband, said she was unsure about how to go about getting donations but said Rev. O'Farrell has agreed to use the Belle Glade Alliance Church as a clearinghouse or donations can also be mailed directly to her brother-in-law's church in Guatemala City.

She said checks could be made out to either church and said the direct contributions could be mailed to: Iglesia San Juan Apostol, care of Rev. David Rodriguez, 1A Ave. Manzana 11 No. 4, Zona 18, Guatemala, Guatemala C.A.

found. She said all dog owners ought to take the precaution of tattooing their pets. Mathis said another problem is that many people don't bother to report missing pets.

Dognappers working

A number of dogs in the area which have been reported missing over the past month and a half have created a pattern which could indicate a ring of dognappers could be at work.

Belle Glade Police Deputy Chief Bill Mathis said the local police department has only had one missing-dog report filed recently but two private citizens indicated this week that at least seven expensive pets have been missing over the past six weeks.

The one report which has been filed came from Mr. and Mrs. Mark Masling of 109 S.E. Seventh St. North, who said one of their Irish Setters was missing.

Mrs. Masling said her Setter was the third dog in about a two block area of her home which had been missing within a week's time. The other two were a poodle and a Dachshund.

She said the other two dogs were missing after their owners had turned them out into their front yards, one in the early morning and the other in the early evening, to answer nature's call. Both were missing after being outside for only about five minutes, she said.

The Masling's dog was lost Sunday morning as Mr. and Mrs. Masling were working in their front yard. She said their two dogs left the yard to go to a nearby canal, returned, left again and only the male returned.

"I don't know why people would do a thing like that," Mrs. Masling said, "but I've heard tales about people stealing dogs to sell for vivisection experiments. If they wanted a pet," she said, "they could have gone the dog pound, even if they wanted a pet to sell."

Her question was answered by Mrs. Charlotte Mulvaney, owner of the Puppy Parlor, one in Belle Glade and one in Clewiston. Mrs. Mulvaney said she knew of five poodles which have been missing from Belle Glade the past six weeks.

"A good Irish Setter," Mrs. Mulvaney said, "can be sold for $75 to $150 without papers of proof of ownership. A poodle, forgetting the papers, can still be sold for up to $100."

She said she has been on the lookout for poodles she knows are missing. She said she has been able to help recover five or six dogs over the past several years, but none this year.

"It's a recurring problem," she said. "Last year, about this time, nine dogs were missing from Clewiston and they were all good dogs. All the dogs missing in Belle Glade are good dogs too."

She said she is aware of one incident when a Belle Glade woman's poodle was apparently stolen right out of her apartment, and that dog was worth $200 as a puppy.

Mrs. Mulvaney said she has tried in the past to begin a dog association in the Glades area but hasn't had much success. She said this rash of missing dogs might provide the spur needed to revive the idea.

"You should tell the people to watch their dogs," Mrs. Mulvaney said, "because people will pick them up. They shouldn't be allowed out of the home except when they're on a leash or in an enclosed yard. But people will get careless with their pets. I do it too but I shouldn't."

She said that once a dog is stolen, it is almost impossible to prove ownership even if it's

Johnson to speak

The Rev. Dr. Torrey M. Johnson will be the main speaker during the regular program conducted by the Belle Glade Rotary Club Tuesday. Dr. Johnson was founder of the Youth for Christ International, the largest youth organization of its kind in the world and has spoken to groups around the world, including the Garden Tomb of our Lord in Jerusalem, where he was speaker of the day on Easter Sunday, 1960, 1965 and 1966. He is also president and senior minister of the Bibletown Community Church in Boca Raton.

Raiders win two games going into district playoffs

The Glades Central basketball team won two games over the past week, leaving one more game before the Raiders host the district playoffs on Feb. 27.

The Raiders walloped Okeechobee Friday, leaving the record 83-49 victors in spite of the fact ace rebounder Patrick Collie was out of the game with a sprained ankle and Anthony Burger had been grounded by academic penalties.

Coach Jay Seider said the Raiders graded out at 54 percent on shooting, a clear factor. "I was pretty pleased," he said, "considering Patrick was out and William Lively and Mike Pringle both had hip pointers and Lively was playing with a cold."

He said neither Lively nor Pringle were playing at 100 percent, although both played well. "Otherwise we probably would have shut down Manuel Sato to a lower score."

Sato was the star of the game as he amassed 31 points in a losing effort for the Brahmanas but Seider said the Raiders were shooting too well and the other Brahmanas couldn't give Sato the support needed to win. Seider said Okeechobee would probably be the school the Raiders would play in the district playoffs, since Okeechobee plays Jupiter in the Feb. 27 playoff. Seider said he hopes the Raiders can go on to win the district championship.

Pringle and Lively led the scoring as Pringle picked up 21 points and 15 rebounds and Lively totaled 21 points and 10 rebounds. Melvin Stevenson came in third with 14 points and three rebounds and T. J. Salter was the last Raider scoring a double digit.

All the Raiders scored and all picked off at least one rebound. Clyde Ward made five points and five rebounds, Harvey McGriff picked up four points and four rebounds, Gary Willis made four points and one rebound, Gary Woods made two points and seven rebounds and Alonzo Perkins made two points and one rebound.

The Raiders met and defeated Suncoast, 78-70 Tuesday night in a game which saw the Raiders hold the Chargers to two baskets in the second quarter.

Seider said Suncoast held an edge at the end of the first quarter but "Pringle took over in the second and third periods and that made the difference."

This was another game which saw the Raiders shooting hot (56 per cent) compared to Suncoast's 37 per cent and after Glades Central settled down, everything came their way.

Seider said the Raiders were controlling the backboard, allowing the Chargers an average of only one shot at a time before the too-tall Raiders scooped in the rebounds and moved the ball back to the other end of the court.

"We moved the ball around and really controlled it during the second and third quarters," Seider said. "Our boys were really hot. They even hit some things I'd never seen them try before."

Pringle led the Raider effort with 26 points and 17 rebounds and Lively was following him up with 18 points and 11 rebounds. Stevenson made 15 points and one rebound and Salter made 13 points and three rebounds.

Single digit scorers were Perkins with two points and Ward and McGriff with two points and a single rebound each. Woods was scoreless but made five rebounds and Williams made two rebounds.

The Raiders will play their last game Friday against Fort Pierce in Fort Pierce. Seider said he thinks Collie may be able to play in that game but he won't push him, hoping to save him for the district playoffs.

Everything is right for Speck fishermen

Speck fishermen report that all signs (Moon, wind, water) were perfect for fishing over the week-end. The past few days saw the best Speckled Perch action of the current fishing season with many fishermen reporting in at Slim's Fish Camp in Belle Glade with limit and near limit catches.

Clark Bentley of Richmond, Ky. came in with his limit of specks on Saturday and again on Sunday.

Jane and George Ives, Belle Glade, took their limits on Sunday morning using jigs. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Blackwell, Ft. Lauderdale, reported 60 specks on Saturday using live minnows, and their limits on Sunday.

Frank Blocker and Lee Arden, Ft. Lauderdale, reported 50 specks on Saturday and again on Sunday using live bait.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Legg, Belle Glade, came in with 55 specks on Sunday.

Base fishermen also reported action over the past week-end. George Ives was limited with 10 bass weighing to 3 3/4 pounds each on Friday. Arch Stallard, Louisville, Ky. reported 3 bass to 5 lbs. each on Saturday.

David Patrick, Tequesta, Fla. weighed in a 6 pound bass on Sunday. Barney and Gary Bryant, Pompano Beach, reported 5 bass on Saturday. The largest weighing 7 pounds 4 oz. on this stringer.

Al Miller, West Palm Beach, reported action on a Gold Johnson Spoon with yellow skirt. Al's largest went 7 1/2 pounds.

The Lake Okeechobee Bassmasters held a tournament in the Belle Glade area of the lake on Sunday. With 11 boats participating, the Bassmasters reported a total catch of 173 bass weighing 11 oz.

Three place was taken by Angelo Ivas and Doug Clark with 21 pounds 10 oz.

It is always exciting to see the Bassmasters weigh-in at the close of a tournament. These are some really great fishermen who really know how to catch the bass.

Second place went to John Davis and Mark Sanders with 20 pounds 11 oz.

Night fishing can bring trouble

CLEWISTON-The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission agrees that night fishing is a highly productive method of filling the family freezer, but boaters without lights might also collect a citation as part of their catch should a wildlife officer come on the scene, warns Lt. Col. Brantley Goodson, chief of Law Enforcement for the Commission.

"With the steady increase in boating traffic and the resultant increase in night fishing, we are constantly warning fishermen to have their fishing craft properly lighted, even if they have power off and are drifting," Goodson said. "The operator of another boat under power might not hear you shout, and he might not even know you were on the water, until he sticed your boat in half and dumped you in the water."

A rise in the number of incidents involving unlighted fishing boats in heavily fished areas prompted Col. Goodson to issue the warning.

"Concern for the fishermen in Florida is always a top priority item," the law enforcement chief stated, "and we know that a person suddenly dumped from a boat during darkness could easily become confused about directions and drown within a few yards of the shoreline."

Carrying all needed safety equipment and a healthy dose of common sense are necessary precautions for any boating trip. Adding required lighting for after-hours fishing is another way to insure a safe return to dockside when the fishing is done.

Big boats get big catches

Florida anglers who borrow or buy boats have the greatest fishing success, according to time and Fresh Water Fish Commission wildlife officers, but the bank and shore fishermen aren't too far behind in the collection area.

Big boats, with price tags ranging into the thousands and equipped specifically for bass fishing, are still drawing the most stares and the biggest share of publicity as they haul in big bass for the table and the trophy room.

Sooner or later it's gonna happen to you. Dean had it last week and this I have the problem—endless starting at a white sheet (his was yellow, I have white) of paper and wondering what in the world to write about this week. I've had all week to think about what I'm going to bore you with and keep putting it off tomorrow. Well, tomorrow's here and there's no choice but to fill this white sheet up with something.

While we're talking about nothing, how would like to hear about my tennis playing? Actually, if you were having the chance to watch me playing tennis you wouldn't know it was the same game. Well, here goes.

Once upon a time there was a group of girls who were sports-minded—it doesn't matter that they weren't perfectly coordinated, indeed far from that, but they were interested in giving their bodies a workout in order to keep from getting flabby—after all, who wants to whistle at a flabby body in a bikini bathing suit?

Well, these girls had been playing softball all through the year but the sport had been sort of slacking off in the past few months (from November, to be exact) and it was about time to try something different for a change.

So, heading through the pages of Sports Illustrated, there was quite a field to choose from—but first the reviews had to be eliminated, such as swimming. Now the idea of going to the beach might appeal to some Northerners (Yankies with a capital N), it sounds preposterous to a home-grown girl who doesn't like to stick her foot in the water if it's less than 80 degrees outside. So, swimming was out—with a little footnote attached to it in case this weather became a lot warmer—like hot, ya know?

quickly discarded because while it has become cold enough to seem as if it were going to snow, we have yet to see little flakes of ice fall down onto our eyelashes, much less ice areas to try out some ice skating. Mountain climbing is definitely out—the hike wasn't really anyone's idea of a mountain and drag and stock car racing was ruled out as much too precarious. Golf and bowling are noted as possibilities, but only when you have the money.

Football was sounded out with some support, but it was soon found it was necessary to have more than four or five players for a good, strong game. Basketball, well that's another story, and I'll get to it again sometime.

Now comes the sport we've been waiting for. Tennis! That's not such a bad idea, all that's required are at least two players, racket, tennis ball, and a tennis court. Why didn't we think of it before? Well, we did, but just hadn't done anything.

So what could be so hard about hitting a ball to the other side of the court to the other? Should be as easy as apple pie. Well, apple pie never was as easy to make and tennis isn't either.

It was quickly discovered there was no problem with hitting the ball but difficulty lay in keeping the ball in the playing area—namely the court.

The secret to tennis is ball control—the angle of the racket is very important in this. After all, it is very startling to say the least when you let a rip and hit the ball with all your strength, and suddenly the players in the other court are playing with two balls or to see the said object hurtle into the sky to become an orbiting satellite. But what goes up must come down—so every player have their eyes riveted or else they may be hit by a giant "ballstone."

Another aspect of the game is body participation. Most beginners think that the arm does 90 percent of the work, but while the arm is important (especially the one holding the racket), so every muscle of the body gets into the act. If you don't use it, so just go out and play for three solid hours and see how you feel later—especially when you aren't used to it.

The feet are also very important. There is so much running and gasping from one side of the court to the other, they have to keep telling each other where they are so they don't keep tripping over each other in the ensuing chase, what with all the quick starts and stops.

A reminder, be sure to wear comfortable shoes with socks when playing or else you'll have blisters the size of eggs on the bottom of your feet, and you'll go hobbling around without shoes for a couple days.

Other than these few minor details, tennis can be lots of fun and should be played more than once in a while for it takes much concentration and as they say, practice makes perfect, well, maybe a better game anyway. But that's the way the ball bounces.

Belle Glade Christian Crusaders raised its season record to 6-8 this weekend by defeating Lake Worth Christian and Summit Christian.

Both games were played in borrowed East Coast Gyms, as most private schools do not have their own gyms.

On Friday, the Crusaders fell behind and did not play well until the last quarter, when finally taking the lead 47-40.

After this, the Crusaders went to their four corner offense and gradually pulled away by the final score. Mike Graham was the Crusaders' leading scorer with 17 points and Terry Steele added 14 to the total.

On Saturday, the Crusaders took a slim three point lead at half time and outscored Summit 12-3 in the third quarter to put the game away. Subs finished up the 4th quarter of the game, as Coach Sullivan cleared the bench.

Terry Steele led the Crusaders with 17 points and Mike Graham continued to look good despite four fouls.

The Crusaders problem of an indoor court will soon be solved as donations are coming in for their gymnasium and plans are moving along very fast for completion of their $225,000.00 gym. Good crowds from the Glades showed up for all of the games, which is proof of good healthy support of our team.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

FEB. 23-29, 1976

Order your seeds now. Buffalo bill Feb. 28, 1976. Spectacles invented Feb. 28, 1825. Average length of days for the week, 11 hours, 2 minutes. Republican Party started Feb. 28, 1854. Mt. Erin erupted Feb. 26, 1901. Rotary Club founded Feb. 23, 1905. Blame not, before you have examined the truth.

Old Farmer's Riddle: What is the difference between a cloudy day and a sunny day? (Answer below) 1976 Ask the Old Farmer: I've just called over but nobody seems to answer. Can you tell me why without obscuring my recent moons on their doors? (Answer below) It is the emblem of the quipped eye of a Peeping Tom, adapted by an eccentric minded elder.

Home Hints: Attach stick-on labels to appliances, products, etc. to record the date of the last service call or the replacement of a part. The latter answer: One claims the he's and the other barmy.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Quite heavy snow to start, turning to rain by midweek; latter part mostly sunny and warmer with some light snow in north and mountains.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Week starts with light snow changing to rain or freezing rain, then warming, ending with rain and above normal temperatures, but cloudy on weekend.

Middle Atlantic Coast: Clouding up and milder at midweek; rain, generally fair and mild days, with freezing nights later in week.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Light to moderate rain in north and south at beginning, then warming, sunny, but some light rain in south.

Florida: Rain and warm; with thunderstorms by midweek; warmer light rain later part. Followed by a pretty good week with above normal temperatures, but cloudy on weekend.

Update N.Y.-Toronto & Montreal: First part of week milder and rainy, some snow in central and north mountains; rest of week generally sunny and mild with above normal temperatures.

Greater Ohio Valley: Week begins with warming and light rain, then cloudy and cool; sunny and considerably warmer later part, but moderate to heavy rain by week's end.

Deep South: Weather to midweek is cloudy and warm with light rain, then clearing and cool; heavy rain and warm later in week, then cold by weekend.

Chicago & Southern Great Lakes: Week begins seasonable with light rain in south, light snow in north, then clearing, rest of week generally clear and mild with some rain.

Northern Great Lakes: Mild to moderate, then cold wave; latter part of week snowy and very cold in central and west; light snow and mild in east.

Central Great Plains: Sunny and mild through midweek; blizzards in northeast and rain in central and east; rain and snow continue through latter part, clearing, and mild in west.

Texas-Oklahoma: First part of week cold and warm; light rain in central and south; rain, freezing rain and sleet in east, latter part.

Rocky Mountain: Stormy in central and east, with rain, snow and winds at first, getting much colder midweek, partly sunny and cold in south and central latter part; light rain and snow in north.

Southeast Desert: Severe by midweek with light rain, then clearing and cold; rest of week very cold with heavy frosts.

Pacific Northwest: Week begins partly sunny and mild; light rain in north; latter part generally sunny and mild, but some rain in north.

California: Early week rainy over region, mixed with snow in mountains; generally cool and clear latter part.

Washington and Howe squaring off for fight

By JEROME TURK & Wm. D. ELLIS
CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Feb. 21, 1976 - As Washington and Howe stand taut & touchy here before Boston, each wondering when & if the other will attack, the situation has suddenly changed. Upwards of 20,000 mercenaries - hired from the German provinces - may soon be en route here to upset the military balance in favor of Britain.

If there is truth to the reports received here at Gen'l Washington's headquarters, the Landgrave of Hess-Cassel last month agreed to loan 12,000 trained infantry & 32 cannon for service in America. Another 4,000 Hanoverians are said to be engaged (George the Third, negotiations are going forward with other realms, including Russia, where 10,000 troops have been requested.

Whether these reports are true or not, the news must affect G'n'l Washington's planning. If he does not quickly sack Boston, the British may soon be reinforced with more than 20,000 tough & disciplined professionals, in addition to the 10,000 regulars currently on station in Boston.

The Gen'l has accomplished a feat just by recruiting one new army while discharging an entire army of three-month militia here under the muzzels of enemy guns.

Yet 2,000 of the fresh Continentals have no weapons at all. (When he was visiting here a few weeks ago, Ben Franklin suggested that Americans without muskets be armed with bows & arrows. The Gen'l nodded gravely.)

The very idea of Britain hiring mercenaries to do their fighting grated heavily against the sensibilities of most Americans.

"The Lord North ministry has gone too far," I spat at my colleague Turk. "Imagine. Hiring men by the head from some money-hungry German prince. The idea is too contemptible to be English! The Mother Country - hiring paid killers against her own flesh & blood."

Turk, slightly amazed at my lengthy oration, expressed no surprise at the idea of mercenary troops. "It's been done for centuries," he commented as he reached into his saddlebag draped over a chair. Turk pulled out a thumbtacked history & read me the horrible facts about professional regiments - the Swiss infantry which has sold its services all over Europe, the German Landsknecht, the Italian Condottiere.

"But they're going to use them against Englishmen," I protested. Turk threw his book on the floor in exasperation with me.

"We are not Englishmen, William! Get that through your head. Some of our families have been here more than 150 years," Turk shouted.

"We are Americans. We may talk the same language as some of our cousins over on the Isles. But we don't live, behave, or think like Englishmen anymore," my colleague continued.

"Tell those Johnnies among your soldier friends to get ready to fight hard against paid killers. Paid by a cold, calculating enemy. And guff-calling it the Mother Country!" Turk snapped over his shoulder as he clapped on his tricorn & slammed the door behind him.

Ronald Reagan to speak at PBJC rally

Ronald Reagan will speak at a rally in the Palm Beach Junior College Gymnasium Sunday, March 7 at 3 p.m., according to Social Science instructor Edwin W. Pugh.

faculty advisor to the PBJC Political Union.

"We're making an effort to bring all the candidates to the campus, so that voters will be able to hear them and be better able to decide how to vote in the Primary Election, March 9," Pugh said.

George Wallace was here Feb. 3 and Henry "Scoop" Jackson is scheduled to come Feb. 24, and we're continually making contacts with the other candidates, too, Pugh pointed out.

Reagan's appearance comes on the same day the Southside Kiwanis Club, in cooperation with the PBJC Alumni Association, is sponsoring a Chicken Barbecue from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the PBJC Cafeteria.

The barbecue is for the benefit of the Women's Sports Program at the college, according to the Dean Paul J. Glynn, vice president for Student Personnel, coordinator of the event at PBJC.

"We're trying to get in touch with the 'City Hall Gang' and all our other alumni to encourage them to come," Glynn said.

(The "City Hall Gang" refers to those students who attended PBJC when it was temporarily located in the Lake Park City Hall).

Local men pass competency tests

Intercoastal Auto Electric and Air Conditioning Service announced today that Robert Whidden and Paul Grooms have successfully completed recent written tests of their competency, conducted by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey. As a result of this accomplishment, Whidden and Grooms have received a certificate from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence indicating the areas of their demonstrated competency.

These mechanics have joined the prestigious ranks of more than 83,000 professionals who have been passing tests since the inception of the Institute's program more than three years ago.

Intercoastal is located at 1180 N. Main St. at Airport Road in Belle Glade.

Parson misses Lions

1975 Daytona 500 Auto Race winner Benny Parson sent his regrets that he was unable to keep his speaking engagement at the Belle Glade Lions Club.

Feb. 11, due to the pre-race schedule for this year's Daytona competition.

Parson catapulted to fame last year when he won the "500" a few days after addressing the local Lions Club. He promised to speak before the club again this year prior to the race, however his training schedule got in the way. Parson told Lion Skipper Bowles, who was in charge of last week's program.

The Lions unanimously approved a motion by Bert Ward to send a telegram to Parson wishing him good luck at his year's Daytona race.

Bowles was the brunt of some good-natured kidding but everything was forgiven in the end. (We think.)

FAU degrees

Three Belle Glade students received degrees, two bachelors, one masters, during the winter quarter at Florida Atlantic University.

Marie B. Hill earned her masters of education degree while Bruce D. Brancati earned his bachelor of arts degree in social science and Tailor J. Shatara won a bachelor of arts degree in Science.

Rogers to speak

The Palm Beach County Educational Media Association is presenting a biennial program entitled "Then and Now." Congressman Paul G. Rogers will be the guest speaker.

This celebration will be presented at the "First Showhouse" in Phipps Park, in Palm Beach February 22, at 4 o.m. The public is invited.

103-year old traveler is out to see the United States

Centennarian rambling man keeps on a-trucking

When 15-year-old Walter C. (for Casey) Jones walked away from his St. Paul, Minn. home one Sabbath while on his way to Sunday School, he decided keep walking.

Last week, more than two million miles and 88 years later, he stayed overnight in Belle Glade and, at the age of 103, still had the reputation of a traveling man.

But when Jones drove his motor home into the parking lot of Glades Plaza Thursday, Jones was a little more sure of where his next meal was to come from than when he left home with 65 cents in his pocket that Sunday in 1890.

"I'd been saving up over the years," he explained, "so my wife would be taken care of when I died. As it happened, she died first and I decided to spend the savings to see the 48 states so Uncle Sam wouldn't get it all."

Jones is quick to point out he married "kindsa young," at the age of 50, to his wife, Ella, who was 34 at the time. He became a widower in the fall of 74 and it was after that he decided to buy a motor home and see the 48 contiguous states, starting from his home in Tacoma, Wash.

To begin with, he was planning to travel with a 20-year-old companion, Patrick Gates, but those plans were ended during a shakedown cruise of his land yacht.

"I'd never driven a motor home before," he recalled, "and we were driving along so I decided to see what it could do. We were going uphill about 71 miles per hour and Pat wanted to drive."

"Why there wasn't any danger," he said, "I've never had an accident in my life and I drove more than two million miles before starting on this trip. Anyway, he decided after that he wouldn't come along."

His plans haven't worked out in at least one other way either, since he left Tacoma on July 3 of last year. He has a stack of yellow leaflets with a picture of himself on the cover, a short biography of his life and some of his favorite quotations included, including one of his own.

"I take life as it comes," that quote reads. "I think clean and I never worry. Worrying is like putting on a brake when you're going uphill; it holds you back. Next to good health, the second best asset a person has is in courtesy. When I meet a rude person, I feel sorry for him."

Jones said he "trades" the handouts for 50 cents each and the proceeds, along with his Social Security check, has kept him going since leaving home.

His savings, so far, have remained intact.

I never knew anyone to solve a problem worrying about it," he elaborated on his philosophy, "but I have known a few who worried themselves into an early grave."

"Women are habitual worriers," he went on. "If they didn't have anything to worry about, they'd manufacture something."

Sporting a mustache and goatee, and wearing a congenial smile, the centennarian traveling man said he has often been likened to a certain well-known fried chicken cook from Kentucky.

"When somebody tells me I look like Colonel Sanders," he said, however, "I say, 'You're wrong. He looks like me. I'm older than him.'"

And although he didn't spend much time here, he isn't a stranger to Florida. He said he worked in a sawmill in a now-non-existent town near Lakeland about the turn of the century and he spent Christmas with a daughter who lives in Tallahassee.

He said he was basically a steam engineer before his "retirement" the still sold advertising in Tacoma before starting on his hunt around the country.

From a habit of taking the first job that came along whenever he found himself unemployed or felt the itch to travel, Jones has also had experience in other trades.

He's been a barber, a carpenter, a farmer, mechanic (he still handles much of his own vehicle's maintenance), dog catcher, constable, magazine salesman, Western Union wire stringer, ground man on a construction crew for American Bell Telephone and others.

Jones was particularly vociferous about the way he handled his jobs as dog catcher, for the Humane Society, and constable.

"They tried to give me a gun the day I started," he recalled, "but I told 'em I didn't want it."

I said I had my cane and that oughta be enough. The way I look at it, the average man shouldn't need anything like that to take care of himself.

"I believe," he said, "that it oughta be against the law for the police to carry guns. There wouldn't be so much killing."

Jones still carries a cane, one he was presented by his fellow Masons in Washington. He said he's been a Mason since he was 92 years old and the cane he carries, made of maple, is one of two gifts he received from his lodge which is going around the United States with him. The other is a portable TV.

Lions urge educational standards

A resolution calling for minimum education standards in Florida schools was passed at the Lions Club District 35-D cabinet meeting in Fort Lauderdale this month.

The resolution was presented by Belle Glade Lions Sam Lovell, an agriculture instructor at Glades Central High School.

At the Feb. 11 meeting of the Belle Glade Lions Club, District Gov. John R. "Jack" Woods told Lion members the resolution would be forwarded to the Lions' Florida Council of Governors this month.

"We hope to get the approval of all 15,000 Florida Lions," Woods said.

The district governor said Florida tax payers have a right to expect students to meet minimum standards before graduating. "We want to get our money's worth from education," he said.

Man escapes

Belle Glade police were still looking this week for a prisoner who escaped from the city jail Monday afternoon.

City Jailor Grady Chancellor said Roy Lee Watson, 19, of 534 S.W. Seventh St., a trusty at the jail, had complained early Monday he was ill and had spent the better part of Monday in his unlocked cell.

Watson was serving a total of 29 days in the city lockup for combined counts of contempt of court, failure to appear, and failure to pay a time payment.

tion," the district governor asserted.

The Lions resolution asks the Florida Board of Education and the Palm Beach County School Board to "initiate minimum levels of education achievement to be attained by students in the public school system, insofar as such student's ability to read, write and solve mathematical problems are concerned."

The resolution states no public school student should be allowed to go on to a higher grade or to graduate until he school can document he has met minimum standards for his grade level.

In their resolution, the Lions decried the increasing number of high school graduates who say are unable to read, write or solve simple mathematical problems.

No trial? Whew!

At least one person must have been relieved when the first non-jury felony trial ever scheduled in the Glades Office Building didn't come off last Friday morning.

That person is William C. Watkins of Pahokee who was to appear before County Judge Don Adams on a felony charge of aggravated battery. Instead Watkins was allowed to plead guilty to two charges of battery, both misdemeanors, and placed on one year's non-reporting probation. The defendant must repay his victim's medical bill which amounted to between $200 and $300 plus a $100 legal fee to public defender Sam Fower; but at least he didn't go to jail.

Watkins was arrested December 13 and charged with aggravated battery with a deadly weapon (a pool cue) on Calvin Leeford of Arkansas. His case was to be the first non-jury felony trial ever held in the Glades following a rule by the chief judge of the 15th Judicial District authorizing Judge Adams to hear non-jury felonies in the Glades

Office Building.

Assistant state's attorney Michael Miller said he agreed to the plea negotiation after consulting with the victim and the arresting officer.

Miller said Leeford told him he didn't want Watkins jailed and that the whole incident was a mistake.

Mistake or not, it was a lucky break for Watkins. But court officials haven't given up on non-jury felony trials. In fact one is scheduled for this Friday, 13th at the Belle Glade County court annex.

Love that kid

Twas the day before Valentine's and all through the center the exceptional education students were being entertained by a bunch of great winners. It may not be poetry in the classical sense but it was love in the classical sense Friday when members of the Glades Central National Honor Society threw a Valentine's Day party for students at the Exceptional Child Education Center at Gove Elementary.

Guatemala gets help

There are still a couple of days left to pitch in with the Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club to help in the relief of earthquake-stricken Guatemala. The Juniors, with the cooperation of the Belle Glade Fire Department, is gathering clothing, canned goods, tents, first aid supplies and cold cash to help the citizens of the South American country. As of Monday, the ladies had gathered an estimated 60 boxes, weighing between 35 and 50 pounds each. President Gina Farley said most the items received so far have been clothing, including a number of old uniforms the firefighters donated. Mrs. Farley said what is really needed now is food, first aid supplies and outdoor sleeping equipment and material. She said the deadline for donations will be Saturday, when the boxes will be picked up by the Salvation Army. Helping pack the supplies, above, from left, are club member Gina Massingill, firefighter Warren Street and Robert Carter, Mrs. Farley and firefighter Jerry Smith.

Gospel music group to appear here Tues

Donny Monk

Donny Monk and Friends, a gospel music group from California, will be presenting a concert of contemporary Christian music at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Community United Methodist Church.

The group is managed by Continental Singers of Thousand Oaks, Ca. Donny is entering his third year with the company. Before forming his own group, he served as assistant director of the Continental Singers Scandinavian Tour in the summer of 1973 and on their first orchestra tour in 1974.

This past summer, he was director of the Continental Orchestra with Donny Monk and Friends. In addition to the summer tours, he directed New Hope Europe in the five month tour of Holland and Switzerland in 1974.

Monk and his group made their first tour of the United States in 1975, covering most of the states. They have just returned from a tour of New Zealand and Hawaii with guest soloist Jamie Owens.

The group is made up of Monk, 26, of Leesville, La.; Jim Anderson of Duluth, Minn.; Dennis Cerniglia from San Louis Obispo, Ca. and Jud Crane from Woodbridge, Va.

Their music consists of contemporary gospel blended with hymn arrangements and original numbers. "Mellow" was the word used to describe the sound. The public is invited to the Belle Glade concert at no charge.

Funeral services held for John Elwood Coley

Funeral services were held at graveside Monday for John Elwood Coley, 77, of 601 N.E. First St., conducted by the Rev. Francis Luce of Florida Southern College in Lakeland.

Masonic rites were also conducted by Belle Glade and Stuart Lodge Alpha Chapter 163 F.A.M.

Coley was born in Trenton, N.J. He died Friday in Palm Beach Manor Nursing Home after a long illness.

He was a member of the Methodist Church, a member of past master of the Acadia Masonic Chapter #163 F.A.M. of Stuart.

He was a retired civil engineer with Western Electric Corp., where he was employed for 35 years.

He was responsible for selection and construction of new industrial sites for Western Electric during their expansion throughout the United States. He worked on the NORAD Air defense System, setting up air defense tracking stations throughout the eastern portion of the nation.

He also helped engineer the vast DEW Line Air Defense Detection System, a chain of long-range radar stations spread across northern Canada. He supervised the construction of missile tracking stations associated with the NASA Mercury Space Project.

His responsibility started in the Bahamas and ended at the Indian Ocean. His pioneering days in the Glades was highlighted by his influence in naming Martin County during the early days of Florida history.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. M. J. Luce of Belle Glade; one brother, James Richard Coley of Venice; five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Services and burial were held at Fort Mayaca Cemetery in Martin County. Mixson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs Boynton dies

Funeral services were held Friday at the Canal Point United Methodist Church for Mrs. Katherine Elizabeth Boynton, with the Rev. Dan Casselberry officiating.

Mrs. Boynton was 80 years old. She was of Florida and came to the Glades from Fort Meade. She made her home on Lake Shore Drive in Canal Point since 1929. She died Feb. 11.

She attended Florida Southern College. She was an honorary member of Canal Point Lions Club.

Survivors include one son, Joe Tom Boynton of Northern Palm Beach; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine Elizabeth Boynton, with the Rev. Dan Casselberry officiating.

Mrs. Boynton was 80 years old. She was of Florida and came to the Glades from Fort Meade. She made her home on Lake Shore Drive in Canal Point since 1929. She died Feb. 11.

You'd Better Believe in Youth!

Believe it or not, today there are one hundred million Americans 25 years younger than you. That's right, half our population of two hundred million people.

On this basis, you'd better believe in youth, if you ever believed in anything.

Fortunately, you can believe in this swelling tidal wave of Tomorrow!

Despite the bearded beatniks in some areas, the youth of today is just as sound as the youth of yesterday.

Despite the hapless hippies of the lunatic fringe, the high school crop of today is the best crop we've ever raised. They're eager to learn and share their knowledge.

Despite misguided demonstrators on some campuses, the college men and women of today are learning more and acting more adult than those of other generations.

Despite the commie-led agitators on city streets, the Christa-oriented youths in your neighborhood and mine are still closer to God and country than ever before.

Young men in uniform are helping America keep its pledges all over the world. Young women in uniform are backing them up, and serving the sick, the halt and the lame all over the land.

Yes, youth is on the march everywhere... to take over the job of upholding law and order. Young business men are assuming more responsibilities. Young scientists are contributing to new products, new developments in every field.

Dynamic, restless, productive youth is dedicated to improve this world.

If you don't believe it, get acquainted with some of the young people in your neighborhood. You might even help with one of the youth groups in your community or at your place of worship.

Cigars may be worse than smoking cigarettes

Ex-cigarette smokers who switch to cigars may be exchanging a bad health risk for a worse one, reports Christmas Seal researcher, Allan L. Goldman, M.D., Tampa.

Dr. Goldman says, "inhaled cigar smoke robs the blood of more oxygen than inhaling cigarette smoke." And, he said, most cigarette users intentionally continue inhaling.

Some state campgrounds don't take reservations

TALLAHASSEE - Campers planning a spring holiday at Florida's state parks should note that reservations are not accepted at 18 of the state recreation areas.

"Many persons do not realize that telephone reservations cannot be made at these parks, and that accommodations are only on a first-come, first-served basis," explained Harmon Shields, executive director of the Florida Department of Natural Resources.

Shields said many persons have been calling these parks and become frustrated when no one answers the phone. He explained, "As these are less used parks, they don't have fulltime entrance stations and cannot always be reached by phone. Also, because they are less used, it is not likely that reservations will be needed."

Shields suggested they write DNR in Tallahassee for a listing of the parks, so they will know which recreation areas accept reservations by phone and those that do not.

The director pointed out that 20 parks with camping facilities accept telephone reservations year round and four parks only during summer months, beginning June 1.

"Even at the parks accepting telephone reservations, half of the camping sites are saved for the drive-in crowd on a first-come, first-served basis," he stated.

The following are helpful regulations for campers to know:

Dr. Goldman is one of four researchers receiving Christmas Seal grants for 1975-76 from the Florida Lung Association and its affiliates to find answers to the cause and cure of lung disease.

Dr. Goldman, Chief, Pulmonary Disease Section, Tampa Veterans Administration Hospital, conducted his study with 16 non-smokers, 24 inhaled cigarette smokers and 10 inhaled cigar smokers who were ex-cigarette smokers.

Carboxyhemoglobin levels of the 10 cigar smokers were as much as four times as high as those of the 24 cigarette smokers, and 8 times as high as those of the non-smokers. Dr. Goldman said, Blood oxygen saturation was significantly less in cigar smokers than in cigarette smokers than in non-smokers. Carboxyhemoglobin is formed when carbon monoxide resulting from incomplete combustion of tobacco is inhaled and combines with hemoglobin in the blood. Inability of transporting oxygen, it interferes with the exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs, robs body tissues of oxygen, and contributes to hardening of the arteries.

All 50 patients in the study had inhaled cigarettes in the past. After learning of their lung disease, 16 quit smoking entirely, 24 continued to smoke cigarettes and 10 changed to cigars, but continued to willfully inhale. Only 2 of 12 cigar smokers examined during the study denied inhaling, and had very low carboxyhemoglobin levels to verify their denials. He concluded that most ex-cigarette smokers who switch to cigars intentionally inhale.

But, he added, most of these cigar smokers inhale, as well as their physicians, were unaware of the potential harm of inhaling. Elevated carboxyhemoglobin previously was considered an insignificant threat to cigar users, because it was felt most do not inhale, he said.

Dr. Goldman concluded that cigarette smokers should quit smoking entirely and if they do not switch to cigars, they should be warned about the danger of the extremely high carboxyhemoglobin levels which will result from inhaling cigar smoke.

Other Christmas Seal research projects are being conducted by Sidne Cassin, M.D., University of Florida, Martin J. Fisher, M.D., University of Florida and Adam Warner, M.C., Mr. Sinai Medical Center, Miami.
